

Lab: Jenga (The Tower of Patience)

Goal

To practice fine motor skills and turn-taking under pressure.

What You Need

- A Jenga set (or block tower).

Steps

1. The Build

Build the tower together.

2. The Move

Player 1 removes a block. Player 2 MUST WAIT. Even if the tower is wobbling! Even if they want to help!

3. The Pressure

As the tower gets higher, the pressure goes up. Your hand might shake. Take a deep breath. (Calm the brain).

Discussion

- Did you want to grab the tower when it started to fall? (Reflex).
- Was it hard to watch your partner make a "bad" move?
- Turn-taking is a contract: "I trust you with the tower."

What We Learned

Games teach us to control our bodies and respect the rhythm of others.
